No. 569.

Containing the freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestic.

MONDAY, September 7, 1772.

From the Public Advertiser, July 1.

To the PUBLIC.

ON Saturday the 23d of November last, through Inadvertency and Hurry of Business, I suffered to appear in No. 11,567 of this Paper an illiberal Letter, addressed to Lord Sandwich, under the Signature Otranto, containing some false and scandalous Aspersions on the Character of Robert Boyle Nicholas, Esq; for which in Hilary Term last an Application was made to the Court of King's Bench on the Behalf of Mr. Nicholas, then in America, at the Instance of Mr. Matthew Graves, of the Inner Temple, his Uncle, for an Information against me, and the Court was pleased to order an Information to be filed accordingly.

Being conscious that I was guilty at least of very criminal Negligence, and heartily ashamed that my Paper had been the Means of propagating a despicable Falsehood, extremely injurious to a Gentleman whose Character I have been since well informed deserves Esteem, and whose Honour, Integrity and Morals are I verily believe untainted, even by Suspicion, I made several submissive Applications to his Uncle, Mr. Graves, the last of which was by the following Letter:—"To Matthew Graves, Esq; In the Hope, Sir, that you will view the Offence of which I have been guilty not in any intentional Light, but having proceeded from an Inadvertance, which I acknowledged in a former Letter was scarcely to be pardoned, I have again presumed to throw myself on the Generosity of yourself and the rest of Mr. Nicholas's Friends, and to solicit a Compromise of the present unhappy Affair, on such Terms as you shall please to require.—For me to have mentioned the Terms originally would, as I imagined, have had the Appearance of adding Insult to Injury, and have been an Aggravation of a real though undesigned Offence.—As your Clerk, however, asked me what Terms I had to propose, I have taken the Liberty to mention one, to pay a Sum of Money to some public Charity, by Way of Acknowledgement of, and Atonement for, the Injury I had done to Mr. Nicholas in the Publication of a Letter signed Otranto, on the 23d Day of November. Should this Proposal meet with your Approbation, or if you will condescend to think of any other, it will ever be acknowledged as a great Favour conferred on, Sir your very humble Servant, Henry Sampson Woodfall. May the 29th, 1772."

Mr. Graves was pleased a few Days after I had wrote the above Letter to him, to agree that he would not press for any rigorous Judgment against me on the Conditions following: To Wit, That I should appear in Court, plead guilty to the Information, beg Pardon of Mr. Nicholas and the Public for my Offence, pay 50l. to the Marine Society, and make the Affidavit which I had voluntarily proposed on behalf of myself and my Clerk, that we had done all in our Power to find out the Author and Writer of Otranto, and could not find him or discover who he was; and that such Affidavit, together with an Acknowledgment of my Offence, should be published in the Public Advertiser, the London, St. James's, and Whitehall Evening Papers, within a Fortnight. To these Conditions I chearfully assented, and have accordingly paid to the Marine Society the Sum proposed, will this Term appear in Court and confess myself guilty of the Crime charged upon me by the Information, and do now, as becomes an honest Man willing to atone for an unjustifiable Act, beg Pardon of Mr. Nicholas and the Public, for having unadvisedly printed that Libel, which I am convinced was false and malicious. And it is with Satisfaction I write this Submission, as it is the only Means now left me to make Reparation to a Gentleman whom I have, as I before said, unintentionally injured; and who is of Family, Fortune and an unblemished Reputation.

HENRY SAMPSON WOODFALL.

The abovementioned Affidavit is in the following Words:

In the King's Bench. The King against Henry Sampson Woodfall.

HENRY SAMPSON WOODFALL, the Defendant above named, and JOHN REYNOLDS his Clerk, severally maketh Oath, and each speaketh for himself saith, That he doth not know the Advisers, Authors, Writers or Senders of the Letter addressed to Lord Sandwich, signed OTRANTO, published in the Public Advertiser No. 11,567, on the Twenty-third Day of November last, or any Person or Persons concerned in the Writing or Sending the said Letter so to be inserted, and which was inserted and published in the said Paper accordingly; and that he hath done all in his Power to find out the Author and Writer of the said Letter, but could not find or discover who he was.

HENRY SAMPSON WOODFALL,
JOHN REYNOLDS.

Both sworn at my Chambers in Serjeant's Inn, this 23d Day of June, 1772, before me.

R. ASTON.

SATAN and his IMPS employed.
A POEM.

WHEN Britain and Columba are as one
In their Affections, and their Interests blend;
They then rejoice in Trade and Commerce fair:
And when Bellona rages, they not fear
Nor suffer anxious Care: but manly, brave,
They join their Forces to repel their Foes:
And in just Armsengag'd, they seize their Wealth,
And break their Power, and humble thus their Pride.
Hence Britain's Enemies ever gladly strive
To interrupt their Union, and promote
Discord between them and Contention dire;
That so dividing them, their Foes may join
In League offensive to o'erthrow them both,
And cause them in one common Fall to share.
But chiefly gallic and iberian Power
Shew their Concern Disunion to promote
Between fam'd Britain and Columba fair;
Once the fond Husband and the faithful Wife:
And these confed'rate Powers all Arts would use,
However vile, to make them mutually hate,
And at perpetual Variance to remain.
These Powers invet'rate, who abhorrent are
From British Freedom, Commerce, Wealth and Power;
Not knowing how to cross their happy State,
And bring them to the meanness of their Slaves;
Hence grow resolv'd to ask superiour Aid.
Louis, who had his Kingdom plac'd beneath
The holy Virgin's Patronage and Care,
By a most solemn Act, now serious thought
To ask her Friendship to espouse his Cause,
Don Carlos chose to address the God at Rome,
The Sov'reign Pontiff to assist his Sons.
But fearing each, lest they should not succeed,
Nor wreak their Vengeance full on those they hate;
They call their Prelates to compose a Form
Of Prayer to Satan, of this World the God:
The Prelates hear, and careful draw the Form:
The Princes like it much; and thus they pray:——
O Satan, Ruler of our World and us,
We crave thine help against curst Britain's Power:
Within the little Isle confound the Peace;
And, with the mighty western World afar
Break it's Connection: make them jealous each
Of th' other's Power: widen a Breach; nor let
One friendly Hand it's healing Balm apply.
So wish'd the Sons; and their own Father heard;
Nor only heard; but gave assenting Nod.
Thick gather'd then the Clouds; and he withdrew,
Leaving behind a most sulphurous Stench:
And down he went to Tartarus deep and dark:
His Warrant there he issues to require
His servile Counsellors forthwith to meet,
And the compacted Family to serve.
Instant they all to Pandemonium come,
And in this black Hall, take their proper Seats,
Their Heads first bowing thrice to their known chief:
Satan, who most of earthly Kings commands;
Who, down from Nimrod to this Day, has rul'd
Most Rulers and their Friends of Government,
And o'er his hellish Regions Despot Reigns;
Now seated on his sable Throne, with waving Hand,
Requires submissive Silence of his Peers:
And then with Speech, such as his Bernard us'd
He thus broke forth, I've you to Council call'd:
But of you I no Council want at all:
No! I expect that you such Measures take,
As I think wrong, nor thwart my big Design
Britain's sweet Peace I hate with such a Spouse
As is the western Empire: thus let it break.
And broke it shall be for my Bourbin House:
But you shall take the methods fit t' embroil
The happy Pair and make them live in strife.
Speak, Sons of Guile, and Cruelty, how you
Will this accomplish: for it must be done:
My Will and Pleasure tis: and that's your Law.
Ophis for subtlety renown'd, rose up and spake;
My Venom shall be sure instill'd in those,
Who in the British Senate bear most Sway
Grenville and Townshend: These shall Schemes propose
To seize Columba's Money as their own;
Nor to regard her Cries when sore oppress'd,
Nor will I here desist: A lying Spirit
I'll be in them employ'd by Britain's Foes.
Hence Bernard and Associates, my dear Imps,
From Tongues invenom'd and impoison'd Ink,
Against Columba shall their Falsehoods pour:
Guided by me their rancorous Hearts and Pens
Shall Lies convey, at which their Hearts will start.
Yet their false Tongues and Pens shall so succeed,
That Truth shall not a candid Hearing find:
While fair Columba shall be groaning found
For her Wealth stol'n and Reputation blurr'd:
Thus Things perplex'd shall be: and Britain then
From his Columba shall small Comfort have.
He said, and sat a fierce and fiery Fiend,
Draco by Name indignant starts and foams:
Ev'n take, he says, your guileful Arts and Ways:
These may some Mischiefs do and Britain harm,
But I'm for rash, adventurous, raging Deeds.
When Sons of Falsehood their worst Lies have sent,
And these Admission with our Friends have gain'd;
Then I will dictate Schemes of cruel Wrong,
And urge state Managers to bloody Work.
The savage Bernard and vile Publicans
Shall of our British Friends demand a Force
By Sea and Land to guard their odious Selves;
While they by wicked Law, shall lawless rob:
Their foul request our little Fiends shall grant;
A Fleet and Army shall be then dispatch'd:
Our Hillsborough shall their horrid Orders send:
And Bernard them shall with our Joy receive.
Columba then shall be much plagu'd without;
And Troops ashore shall practise every Vice:
The Rest, which Heav'n regards, they shall disturb;
Tumults they'll raise and drench her Streets in Blood;
And by Example try to damn the World.
Then, Then, Columba will quite sickning grow,
Dislike the Partner of her former Love;
Slight his Caresses and provoke his Frowns;
Think how from him at length Divorce to gain,
And strive in every Way to plague his Heart.
Hence Britain with his Mate, in Peace or War,
Will jarring live, and soon in Anger part.
The Counsellors of Hell shout their Applause;
And wish'd the Plans propos'd may be pursu'd.
Satan, replete with Malice as with Pride,
Rises and swears by all the Stygian Streams,
These Schemes of Artifice and Cruelty
Shall followed be: Then France and Spain shall smile,
And all my Realms with Exultation roar.

EDINBURGH, June 25. Our Lord Chief Baron, in his charge to a Jury on a late trial, after stating the law and evidence, left it to the Jury to judge both of the law and the fact, and to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff or for the defendant, as their own judgment should direct, without endeavouring to bias, or even influence them, as has been of late too often the practice in South Britain, to the scandal of those Judges who have endeavoured to render useless that great bulwark of the constitution, the trial by Jury.

LONDON,

June 25. The panic occasioned by the great Bankruptcy of F. seems now to be pretty well over, and public credit begins to revive.

The day before Mr. F—— stopped payment, he called on a Banker, who is a Quaker, of whom he desired the loan of 20,000l. On being refused, and going away dissatisfied, the latter called him back, and said, "Harker, friend, Two Dice have hurt many a one, but, I promise thee, Fourdyce shall never ruin me."

Meſſieurs EDES & GILL,

AS human life is ſo ſhort, and all men pant for immortal fame, it is aſtoniſhing that ſo very few purſue that courſe which will land them at the deſired haven of peace and glory, and inſure them that honor and deathleſs renown which they moſt ardently thirſt after.—Stupid ſons of men! who can forbear at once to pity and deſpiſe!—But of all the characters that diſgrace human nature and blacken the annals of time, the Tyrant is the deepeſt dye.—The moſt hated and infernal—To gratify pride and avarice, to exalt ſelf and a few friends, enſlave thouſands, and ſpread wide deſolation among mankind, is one of the blackeſt crimes committed on this ſide the bottomleſs pit—And for ſuch crimes undoubtedly thouſands of antient tyrants are now ſinking in thoſe doleful regions of anguiſh & horror, "where hope will never come." How many in Britain, and even in America are following theſe hopeleſs wretches in their paths of vice, to their perdition?

As the Tyrant, is the blackeſt and moſt hated character among men, ſo is the PATRIOT the moſt glorious and beloved. He who views all Men as his Brethren, ardently wiſhes, and to the utmoſt of his Power promotes their happineſs, has an Heaven within, which is a ſpring of the moſt ſublime and angelic joy—He is glorious in the ſight of angels and men—This brighteſt crown of human glory will encircle and adorn his life, gild the moment of his exit, embalm his duſt, and immortalize his name——But this is the leaſt conſideration. How ſublime and godlike will that pleaſure be, which ſprings from ſuch benevolence to mankind? It will attend the immortal mind thro' the regions of felicity, in its boundleſs progreſs of growing day, in the riſing circles of Heaven!

Among the American Patriots who grace the temple of fame, the Names of OTIS, CUSHING, ADAMS and HANCOCK will ſhine along the pages of time, and enter with undiminiſhed glory, the annals of eternity!—— May the examples of theſe worthies ſpread its benign influence from man to man, until every American breaſt glows with the ſame heavenly ardor—And every ſelfiſh, ſordid principle, which animates the tyrannic mind, die away like diſtant ſound, and flee like night before the riſing Sun—Never more dim the regions of America, nor cloud the beams of freedom, until Heaven ſtops the Wheels of time, and buries all worlds in eternity.

PROVIDENCE, Auguſt 29.

Since our laſt five Men have been committed to Goal here, on Suſpicion of counterfeiting Money. They were apprehended at Scituate, and we are told a Number of others are concerned, that have not yet been diſcovered.

Monday laſt the Workmen at Mr. SNOW's Meeting-Houſe raiſed the Spire of the Steeple, which is about One Hundred Feet high, and very elegant.

SALEM, SEPTEMBER 1.

We hear that Capt. Webber, who arrived at Marblehead laſt Friday, in Lat. 44, 41. about 25 Leagues to the Weſtward of the Grand Bank, came acroſs a Raft Ship, which had founded.—She was commanded by Capt. John Savage, and it is ſaid had been out 3 Weeks from Philadelphia. The Captain and Crew quitted her, and were brought into Marblehead by Capt. Webber.

BOSTON, September 7.

Since the laſt Publication of Field-Officers, in this Province, His Excellency the Governor has been pleaſed to commiſſionate

John Galliſon, Eſq; Colonel,
Jacob Fowler, Eſq; Lieutenant Colonel,
John Pederick, Eſq; Major
of the 5th Regiment of Militia, in Eſſex County, at Marblehead.

William Bullock, Eſq; Colonel of the firſt Regiment in Briſtol County.

Nathaniel Ruggles, Eſq; ſecond Major of the firſt Regiment in Suffolk County.

Tueſday laſt His Excellency's Company of Cadets, under the Command of Col. HANCOCK, appeared under Arms, upon the Common, where they performed the Manual Exerciſe and a Number of Evolutions, in a very regular Manner: After which they marched into King Street, and went thro' ſeveral Military Manœuvres, to great Satisfaction: His Excellency the Governor, and a great Number of Gentlemen, were in the Balcony of the Town-Houſe and in King-Street to view their Performances.

Wedneſday laſt died very ſuddenly, of a lethargic Diſorder, in the 60th Year of his Age, Major JOHN RUDDOCK, Commander of the North-Battery. This Gentleman having paſſed through ſeveral Town Offices with Reputation, and being well acquainted with the Affairs of the Town, he has for about ten Years paſt been annually choſen a Seletman; which Truſt he diſcharged in theſe Days of Trial and Danger with Reſolution and Fidelity.—As a Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum, he delivered his Opinion on the Bench reſpecting Men and Things with Integrity and a manly Fortitude; and when trifling Complaints were brought before him as a Magiſtrate he endeavoured to compoſe Differences rather than profit by them:—In his large Dealings he diſcovered that he had the feelings of Humanity, and few Perſons in Trade have ſuffered more by their Lenity:—In his Domeſtick Connections he was affectionate and tender, and in his Friendſhips ſincere and ſteady:—As a good Member of Society, always ready not only to patronize the Oppreſſed and relieve the Needy, but to encourage neceſſary and charitable Undertakings with his Subſcriptions:—He was a true Friend to the Conſtitution of the Churches of New-England as ſtated and ſet forth in their excellent Platform, and firmly adhered to the Doctrines of the firſt Reformers; and he honored his Profeſſion as a Chriſtian not only by always giving his Influence on the ſide of Virtue and Religion; but by exerting himſelf in the Defence of our violated Civil Rights. Five Sons and a Daughter ſurvive to mourn their Loſs.——His Remains were on Friday Evening attended to the Grave, by a very reſpectable Number of his Friends and Townſmen. During the Proceſſion, Minute Guns were fired from the North Battery.

An Act paſſed the Aſſembly of the Colony of Rhode-Iſland to prevent Horſe-Stealing, wherein it is enacted, That every Perſon convicted of Horſe-Stealing, ſhall forfeit all his Eſtate; ſhall alſo be publickly whipped at three different Times, receiving 39 Stripes each Time; and be baniſhed the Colony: Every Perſon ſo baniſhed, who ſhall afterwards come within the Limits of that Colony, ſhall ſuffer the Pains of Death.—That any Perſon who ſhall apprehend and ſecure a Perſon ſtealing a Horſe, ſhall be paid, as a Reward, Six Pounds, out of the Treaſury.—That every Perſon whoever purchaſes a Horſe ſtolen, ſhall do it at his Peril: And that no Bargain or Conſideration whatever ſhall ſecure to the Buyer of any ſtolen Horſe, any Right or Title ſufficient to with-hold ſuch Horſe from the proper Owner from whom he was ſtolen.

We hear from Providence, Rhode-Iſland, that an Aqueduct is now compleated there, from Mr. Field's Fountain to that Part of the Town called the Point, which was carried by wooden Pipes through Hills and Valleys, in a ſubterraneous Manner, the Diſtance of three Quarters of a Mile: The Water was conducted with ſuch Rapidity as to deliver One Hundred Gallons in a Minute, thereby ſupplying the Inhabitants of the Point, (who before were deſtitute) by ſmall Conductors leading therefrom, with freſh Water in their Cellars, Kitchens and Chambers, only by the Turn of a Braſs Key. This Affair is the firſt of the Nature ever attempted and effected in Engliſh America. Captain Field generouſly granted the Inhabitants the one half of the ſaid Fountain for the Term of 999 Years: And the General Aſſembly have incorporated the Inhabitants into a Body Politic by the Name of FIELD's FOUNTAIN SOCIETY.

We hear from Hollis, That one Day laſt Week, Mr. Thomas Kelton was run over by a Cart loaded with Clay, and died in about an Hour after.

A Petition of the Town of Princeton, in the County of Worcester, was presented by their Committee, to the General Court at their last Session, Shewing, That in April 1771 that Place, which before was a District, was erected in a Town, and all adjoining Lands which belonged to no other Town or District were annexed, unpetitioned for, which brings the Town into a very irregular Form; a Strip of Land is extended to a great Distance from the Center where the Meeting-House stands; that all and every Part of said Lands is nearer and Roads may be made with less Expence to some other Town or District than to Princeton:—That the Town is new & almost in its Infancy, have been & are necessarily obliged to be at great Expence in finishing their Meeting-House and making new Roads:—That there are but few Inhabitants on this adjoining Land, all of whom usually attend Public Worship, and before their Union with that Town paid Province Taxes to some other Town and have never paid any there to this Day:—That the Town of Princeton, in addition to all the Burdens of settling a Minister, building a Meeting-House and making new Roads must expend Hundreds or Thousands of Pounds to make Roads through this Part, of which the Settlers can bear but a very small Proportion; one Road in particular lately laid out from Westminster to Leominster, through said Land must cost eighty or hundred Pounds lawful Money to make it passable, and the People must be called from the middle and extreme Parts of the Town, and thereby be obliged to travel ten or twelve Miles to work on said Road:—Being subjected to so many Difficulties, which in Process of Time may be prevented by causing a Removal of the Meeting-House, They therefore pray the said Lands may be disannexed. Several Inhabitants of the said Lands, join with the above Petitioners, as they can be better accommodated at some other Town or District.

Upon which the following Order passed,

In the House of Representatives, June 18, 1772.
